OFFICE OF SCIENTIFIC INTELLIGENCE
STATEMENT OF MISSION AND FUNCTIONS

Deputy Assistant Director for Collection (DAD/C)

I. MISSION

The Deputy Assistant Director for Collection (DAD/C) will serve as principal advisor and assistant to the AD/SI in matters relating to the collection of intelligence required by the Office and, on behalf of the AD/SI, supervise all OSI collection activities. The DAD/C, when designated by the AD/SI, will serve in his absence as Acting AD/SI.

II. FUNCTIONS

a. The DAD/C will perform the following functions, collaborating and coordinating with the DAD/P where appropriate:

(1) Advise and assist the AD/SI regarding OSI programs and projects relating to the collection of intelligence; the determination of collection priorities, objectives and requirements; activities of OSI overseas representatives; and the development of new methods and techniques for collection of intelligence.

(2) Review, coordinate and, on behalf of the AD/SI, supervise Office collection activities, including support to the collection activities of other Offices and agencies.

(3) Maintain cognizance of the intelligence collection activities of other Offices and agencies and make recommendations for improving community scientific and technical intelligence collection.

* For purposes of the mission and functions of the DAD/C, intelligence denotes raw information, semi-processed information and finished studies based upon such information.
